I have been very upset about the actions of the DOJ concerning the MS case. The porposed settlement will do NOTHING to affect the MS monopoly in the software OS industry.

The only good thing I have heard come out of the proposal is a suggestion by RedHat Linux software. By letting another company, ANY COMPANY supply the software for the school, MS will be forced to pay actually money (instead of the 10 cents is cost to copy a cd of XP) and at the same time will not increase their already legally shown manopoly.
